

Add a Delegate In Outlook 2019

When you add a delegate in Outlook you are granting permission for another person to receive and respond to email messages and meeting requests on your behalf. You can also grant permissions that allow your delegate to read, create, or edit items in your exchange account. NOTE: you should not assign more than one delegate.

If your Mac OS version is VENTURA & UP...

- On the Tools menu click Accounts
- Click Delegation & Sharing
- Under Delegates click + symbol
- Start typing the name of the person you want to add as a delegate
- Select the name from the list and click Add
- Choose the permission levels and click Ok
- Click Done

In order for your delegate to access your account he/she must follow these steps in Outlook:

- On the Tools menu click Accounts
- Click Delegation & Sharing
- Under Shared with me click + symbol
- Start typing the name of the person you want to add as a delegate
- Select the name from the list and click Add
- Click Done

If your Mac OS version is MAVERICKS & DOWN...

- On the Tools menu click Accounts
- Click Advanced
- On the Delegates tab, under “Delegates who can act on my behalf”, click the + symbol
- Type the name of the person you want to add as a delegate
- Select the name from the list and click Add
- Choose the permission levels and click Ok

In order for your delegate to access your account he/she must follow these steps in Outlook:

- On the Tools menu click Accounts
- Click Advanced and then click the Delegates tab
- Under “Open these additional mailboxes” click the + symbol
- Type the name of the person you want to add as a delegate
- Select the name from the list and click Add
- Click Ok